

Safety first

March 02, 2018 2:15 PM Photos by Paula Burch-Celentano
pburch@tulane.edu

A Tulane Emergency Medical Service technician demonstrates how to administer lifesaving CPR during Student Safety Day.

A Tulane Emergency Medical Service technician demonstrates how to administer lifesaving CPR during Student Safety Day. The event, hosted by the Student Safety Committee, Tulane University Police Department (TUPD), Tulane Emergency Preparedness, and various campus and public safety partners, showcased the tools and resources Tulane uses to protect and serve the university community. Students pose for a photo with New Orleans Police Department mounted patrol Officer Mike Demarco and his horse JC.