From our call for photos of newly decorated dorm rooms, we received a variety of images featuring everything from trendy holographic hues to beachy Bali vibes. 1 - A freshman from Long Island, New York, Taylor Sinett was inspired by the look of a relaxed apartment when decorating her dorm. Her style in three words: Chic. Modern. Comfortable.

2 - Katherine Burkett says that her room in Aron Residences this year incorporates hints of holographic hues. "Upon entry into my room, I covered a portion of my wall in removable holographic vinyl. The holographic wall gives me a constant reminder that a small change in perspective can produce a different outcome. A bonus is that it makes for a great selfie backdrop," said the sophomore from Monroe, Louisiana. Her style in three words: Functional. Chic. Comfortable.

3 - Originally from Gaithersburg, Maryland, sophomore Tori Isaacson upgraded her dorm by using her favorite colors — gray and purple. Her style in three words: Welcoming. Glowing. Purple.

4 - When settling into her new room, Miami native Morgan Elmslie felt inspired by the subtle blues of the ocean. Her style in three words: Comforting. Inviting. Uplifting.

5 - "I used almost all of the same decorations for my dorm that I did for my room back home. It saved money, and it helped me to adjust so that not everything was so new," said first-year student Jenny Bond of Cabot, Arkansas. Her style in three words: Festive. Diverse. Comforting.

6 - Sophomore Nikita Jhangiani kept the theme of "Bali Dreams" in mind while decorating her room in Weatherhead Hall. The Vernon Hills, Illinois, native incorporated a tie-dye silk Indonesian scarf, string lights, a Tulane-themed cushion that she knitted herself and a comfy chair with an anatomical heart pillow (a nod to her major — cell and molecular biology). Her style in three words: Simple. Uncluttered. Meaningful.

7 - Bela Trachtenberg, a first-year student from Gladwyne, Pennsylvania, found the decorations for her room through Dormify. Her style in three words: Cozy. Detailed. Pink.

8 - First-year student and Dallas native Lauren Schussel used Pinterest to find ideas for her room's look. "I wanted a homey but chic vibe for my dorm." Her style in three words: Cozy. Stylish. Warm.
