Tulane medical students raise money for pediatric cancer research

February 05, 2019 11:30 AM

Carolyn Scofield
cscofiel@tulane.edu
(504) 247-1443

Off with their hair! Tulane University School of Medicine students braved a shave to benefit the St. Baldrick’s Foundation. The event raised more than $8,000 for the organization, which supports children with cancer. (Photos by Alexander Hua)