

Game talk with NBA greats

February 20, 2017 3:00 PM

Rick Barry, an eight-time All-Star voted one of the 50 Greatest Players in NBA History paired with Tulane University basketball coach Mike Dunleavy Sr., a former NBA player, coach and general manager, for a lively discussion during NBA All-Star Weekend as part of a half-day event featuring NBA professionals in town for the All-Star game. In this video, Dunleavy and Barry, both considered legends of the NBA, held court on a variety of basketball topics, including how the game has changed over the years, shooting percentages and the one-and-done rule.
