

Sports medicine clinic treats the 'person under the helmet'

June 19, 2017 2:00 PM New Wave staff
newwave@tulane.edu

The Tulane Institute of Sports Medicine has created the new Professional Athlete Care Team (PACT) within the Tulane Medical Center designed to meet the needs of former professional athletes. PACT was developed through a partnership between the Tulane University School of Medicine and Tulane Health System to support athletes' health and safety both on and off the field, said Dr. Greg Stewart, Tulane's chief of physical medicine and rehabilitation and the PACT medical director. View the video below to learn more.