

End of the day

July 10, 2017 1:45 PM Photo by Ryan Rivet
rrivet@tulane.edu

The setting sun illuminates evening clouds behind Newcomb Hall on the Tulane uptown campus. Constructed in 1918 as the architectural centerpiece of the Newcomb College campus, the building houses the departments of philosophy, communication, sociology and all foreign languages.