

New Wave seeks extraordinary 2018 graduates

April 18, 2018 10:30 AM Alicia Jasmin

ajasmin@tulane.edu

Nominate a student in the Class of 2018 to be featured in New Wave during the weeks leading up to the Unified Commencement Ceremony on May 19. (Photo by Cheryl Gerber)

Update: The nomination period has closed.

The Class of 2018 is filled with individuals who have had an extraordinary experience at Tulane University or who will embark on an exciting post-college chapter unlike that of any other. We are seeking nominations for graduates with inspirational stories to be featured in New Wave during the weeks leading up to the Unified Commencement Ceremony on Saturday, May 19, in the Mercedes-Benz

Superdome.

To nominate a graduate, send an email to New Wave editor Alicia Jasmin with the graduate's name, contact information, major and a few sentences describing their notable experience. Selected students will be contacted for an interview.

The nomination period is open through noon on Friday, April 27. Here are a few of our student profiles from 2017:

MFA candidate glides from Broadway stage to classroom

Social work comes into focus for university photographer

Guide dog goes with grad every step of the way

Finance and football fuel grad's 4.0 GPA