

Wind-down

July 23, 2018 3:45 PM Paula Burch-Celentano
pburch@tulane.edu

A family enjoys the last hours of daylight as the sun sets over Lake Pontchartrain. In 1699, Iberville named the lake in honor of Louis Phélypeaux, comte de Pontchartrain, a French politician. Native Americans referred to Lake Pontchartrain as “Okwata,” meaning wide water.