

Brain games

August 28, 2018 12:15 PM Photo by Sally Asher sally@tulane.edu

From a lab in the Tulane School of Science and Engineering, Sabrina Kragness, a PhD candidate in the Department of Cell and Molecular Biology, checks the oxygenation of artificial cerebrospinal fluid. The findings will aid in the study and understanding of age-dependent cognitive effects.