

Tulane University Police Department donates more than $2,000 to Children's Hospital

December 11, 2019 3:45 PM Tulane Today
today@tulane.edu

A representative from Children's Hospital shakes hands with Kirk Bouyelas, chief of police for Tulane University, after TUPD officers present a check to the hospital for more than $2,000 at the hospital's "Champions for Children" event. (Photo by Paula-Burch Celentano)

The Tulane University Police Department presented a check for more than $2,000 to Children's Hospital on Dec. 5 at the hospital's "Champions for Children" event following participation in the police department's "No Shave November" initiative, which allowed officers to stop shaving for the month of November for a donation fee.