

Spirit of Mardi Gras enlivens Tulane campus

February 24, 2022 9:30 AM Tulane Today staff
today@tulane.edu

After a year with no Carnival parades, Tulanians are ready to celebrate the Mardi Gras season once more. On campus, Carnival spirit is high ahead of the local holiday. On the parade route, look for the Tulane University Marching Band, which marches tonight, Saturday and Fat Tuesday in New Orleans parades.

Gibson Hall is illuminated with Carnival colors of gold, green and purple in time for Mardi Gras. (Photo by Paula Burch-Celentano)

On Gibson Quad, the Bead 3 sculptures are heavily draped in Mardi Gras beads and lit during the evening hours. (Photo by Paula Burch-Celentano)