

Back in action for fall 2022 semester

August 23, 2022 3:15 PM Tulane Today
today@tulane.edu

Following a long summer, the Tulane uptown campus springs to life once again for the fall 2022 semester, which began on Monday, Aug. 22.

(Photos by Rusty Costanza)

McAlister Way is busy with students, faculty and staff as the 2022 fall semester begins.

Pierre Conner, executive director of the Tulane Energy Institute and professor of practice of management science, speaks to students in his Energy, Markets, Economics and Policy class in the A. B. Freeman School of Business.

Law student Charles Copetas searches the bookshelves at the Tulane University bookstore for textbooks for the semester.