

Tulane ranked among top universities by US News and Princeton Review

September 12, 2022 8:30 AM Keith Brannon
kbrannon@tulane.edu

U.S. News ranked Tulane No. 30 among national private universities and No. 34 among undergraduate business programs. Princeton Review ranked Tulane No. 1 in the country for Happiest Students. Photo by Rusty Costanza.

Tulane has again been named one of the nation's top universities in the latest rankings from U.S. News & World Report and The Princeton Review.

U.S. News' Best Colleges 2023 edition ranked Tulane No. 44 among the nation's top National Universities, No. 30 among national private universities and No. 34 among undergraduate business programs.

Tulane was ranked No. 1 in the country by Princeton Review for having the Happiest Students and No. 2 in the country for best schools for Service Learning by U.S. News. Tulane was also ranked No. 2 for Students Most Engaged in Community Service by Princeton Review.

In addition, the Princeton Review Best 388 Colleges for 2023 ranked Tulane No. 3 for Best College City, No. 6 for universities that are Most Loved, No. 6 for Most Active Student Government, and No. 7 for Best Quality of Life. Tulane also ranked No. 17 for Best Alumni Network, No. 21 on the list of Best Athletics Facilities, No. 22 among Best-Run Colleges, and No. 24 among colleges with the Best Student Support and Counseling Services.