

Veterans among Tulane's Class of 2023

May 12, 2023 1:00 PM Tulane Today staff
today@tulane.edu

From left: Some of the active duty military or veterans from Tulane's Class of 2023 include William Ancar, Harry Phillips, Charles (Andrew) Perry, Frank Canaan, Nicholas Olivencia, Thomas Taylor, Andrew Wondolowski and Zachary Tewey. (Taylor Compton photo provided by Office of the Registrar)

Among the 3,000 graduates who make up Tulane's graduating Class of 2023, at least 10 brought a unique perspective to college life: They are active duty military or veterans. Tulane University has been ranked a veteran-friendly university, offers services to students who are eligible for VA educational benefits, has a Student Veterans of America chapter, and is forming an alumni affinity group for veterans. Congratulations to these graduates and other veterans who are members of Tulane's Class of 2023.

William Ancar

Branch of service: U.S. Army

Degree earned: Master of Business Administration, A. B. Freeman School of Business

Field of study: Global Strategy and Management

Frank Canaan

Branch of service: U.S. Navy

Degree earned: Bachelor of Arts, School of Professional Advancement

Field of study: Homeland Security Studies

- Canaan will retire from active duty in 2024, after which he plans to work in the intelligence and management fields.

Nicholas Olivencia

Branch of service: U.S. Marines

Degree earned: Juris Doctor, Tulane Law School

Career plan: Clerking for Hon. Stacey G. C. Jernigan, Bankruptcy Court, in northern Texas; later, he will join Kirkland & Ellis Restructuring Group in Chicago.

Charles (Andrew) Perry

Branch of service: U.S. Army

Degree earned: Juris Doctor, Tulane Law School

Harry Phillips

Branch of service: U.S. Army

Degree earned: Juris Doctor, Tulane Law School

Career plan: Fall 2023: Working for Haynes and Boone, LLP, in Texas. Fall 2024: Clerking for Hon. Jay C. Zainey, U.S. District Court in Louisiana.

Antonio Solis (not pictured)

Branch of service: U.S. Navy

Degree earned: Master of Business Administration, A. B. Freeman School of Business

Field of study: Global Strategy & Finance

Career plan: Advance career in Healthcare Industry.

Shawn Stewart (not pictured)

Branch of service: U.S. Navy

Degree earned: Master of Business Administration, A. B. Freeman School of Business

Field of study: Global Strategy and Management

Career plan: Working with disabled veterans, Department of Defense/Special Operations.

Thomas Taylor

Branch of service: U.S. Marines

Degree earned: Juris Doctor, Tulane Law School

Career plan: Job offer with Staines Eppling & Kenney (Metairie, Louisiana).

Zachary Tewey

Branch of service: U.S. Marines

Degree earned: Master of Professional Studies, School of Professional Advancement

Field of study: Homeland Security Studies

Career plan: Serving the Department of Defense as a Protection Specialist.

Andrew Wondolowski

Branch of service: U.S. Navy

Degree earned: Juris Doctor, Tulane Law School

Career plan: Pursuing a career in maritime law.