

Crawfish, music and sun at Crawfest 2025

April 09, 2025 9:00 AM Tulane Today
today@tulane.edu

President Michael A. Fitts enjoyed crawfish with students at Crawfest 2025. (Photo by Kenny Lass)

More than 10,000 pounds of savory crawfish were served up this past weekend for Crawfest, the largest student-run event at Tulane. On Saturday, April 5, the fest welcomed six bands, a variety of vendors, including many from local restaurants, and of course, lots of crawfish to the Berger Family Lawn on Tulane's uptown campus. Photos by Kenny Lass.

Students and locals gathered on the Berger Family Lawn for the beloved Crawfest. The festival featured live music, including Cardinal Bloom and the Lost Bayou Ramblers. More than 10,000 pounds of crawfish were served at the festival. Students were all smiles as they posed with Crawfest's crawfish mascot.