

Tulane celebrates International Education Week 2025

October 31, 2025 9:00 AM Tulane News staff
today@tulane.edu

International Education Week will kick off with an inaugural The Longest Table meal, where hundreds of Tulanians will share a single table on Berger Family Lawn, fostering relationships and engaging in meaningful conversations.

Starting Monday, Nov. 17, Tulane will join universities across the United States to celebrate International Education Week \(IEW\), commemorating Tulane's international community and the university's impactful global learning, teaching and research. This year's theme, "Convivencia: The Art of Building Global Community," reflects a shared commitment to dialogue, collaboration and connection across cultures.

Spearheaded by Tulane Global in collaboration with more than 20 schools and units across campus, the week will feature a dynamic lineup of events, including a keynote musical performance by Martha González, a MacArthur Fellow, Grammy-winning musician and cultural theorist.

On Monday, the week will kick off with an inaugural The Longest Table meal, where hundreds of Tulanians will share a single table on Berger Family Lawn, fostering relationships and engaging in meaningful conversations. The event, open to all, will feature New Orleans cuisine and live music. The Longest Table is hosted by the Newcomb Tulane College (NTC), Student Affairs & Campus Life, the Center for Public Service (CPS), the Office of Academic Excellence and Opportunity, in collaboration with Tulane Global. Full list of sponsors below.

On Tuesday, Nov. 18, Global Café will offer internationally-minded Tulanians a chance to unite and build global connections in an afternoon of engaging conversations, fun activities and free food while mingling with international students and globally-driven peers.

Language Day on Thursday, Nov. 20, will be a vibrant celebration of languages and cultures from around the world. Led by Tulane's Language Center and the School of Liberal Arts, where more than 16 languages are taught, Language Day is dedicated to promoting cultural exchange through an exciting lineup of activities, including international food, music and performances, games and tabling by many Tulane organizations and units fostering international education locally and abroad.

The IEW '25 website lists the full calendar of events happening across campuses and online, including ongoing exhibitions celebrating 100 years of Latin American Studies at Tulane, panels on study abroad programs and more opportunities to recognize the many ways Tulane's global communities, research and partnerships enrich our university.

Sponsors and collaborators for IEW '25 include: Office of Academic Affairs & Provost, Altman Program, Center for Public Service, Center for Engaged Learning & Teaching, Center for Global Education & Office of Study Abroad (NTC), Connolly Alexander Institute for Data Science, Cuban and Caribbean Studies Institute, Freeman Abroad, Fulbright Alumni Association, Howard-Tilton Memorial Library, The Tulane University Innovation Institute, Language Learning Center (SLA), The Lavin-Bernick Center for University Life (LBC) and The Commons, Middle American Research Institute, Newcomb Art Museum, Newcomb Institute, Newcomb-Tulane College (NTC), Office of Academic Excellence & Opportunity, Office of Fellowship Advising (NTC), Office of International Affairs (Tulane Global), Office of International Students & Scholars (OISS), Office of the President, Office of Undergraduate Admission, School of Architecture and Built Environment, School of Law, School of Liberal Arts, School of Science and Engineering, Stone Center for Latin American Studies, Celia Scott Weatherhead School of Public Health & Tropical Medicine, Student Affairs, The Doris Z. Stone Latin American Library and Research Center, Tulane Interdisciplinary Environmental Research & Action Program (TIERA) and The Phyllis M. Taylor Center.