

Social Work Students Hold Juvenile Judges Forum

January 19, 2010 11:15 AM New Wave staff
newwave@tulane.edu

The Tulane School of Social Work is sponsoring a Juvenile Judges Forum on Wednesday (Jan. 20) from 7:30 to 9:30 p.m. On Feb. 6, New Orleanians will be electing a new juvenile judge.

The event in Jones Hall, room 102, on the uptown campus is free and open to the public.

The three candidates running for Juvenile Court Judge, Section E — Richard Exnicios, Tracey Flemings-Davillier and Marie Williams — are expected to attend.

"Juvenile judges play a significant role in the lives of Orleans Parish's children, families and justice system," says Christopher Gross, representative of the Tulane School of Social Work Student Government Association, which organized the forum. For more information, contact Gross.