

Photographers to Discuss Gender Representation

January 20, 2010 2:00 AM New Wave staff
newwave@tulane.edu

Four artists whose work is featured in the latest Carroll Gallery exhibit, "Muse," will speak at a symposium tonight (Jan. 21) on the aesthetics and politics of gender representation.

Tanyth Berkeley, Eve Fowler, Katy Grannan and Dana Hoey will be guest speakers at the symposium from 6:30â€”8 p.m. in Freeman Auditorium in the Woldenberg Art Center on the uptown campus. Stephen Hilger, visiting professor in photography who curated the exhibit, will serve as moderator.

A reception for the artists in the Carroll Gallery will follow the symposium. The exhibit, which runs through Feb. 12, features portraits of women by the four American female photographers.

For additional information, contact Laura Richens, curator of the Carroll Gallery, at 504-314-2228.