It might not seem like the dog days of summer are gone, but summer vacation came to an end on Saturday (Aug. 21), and a new chapter began for the class of 2014. The controlled chaos of move-in day marks the beginning of the 2010 academic year as undergraduates get their first taste of campus life and get ready for the first day of classes today (Aug. 23).

The excitement of move-in day is evident in this slideshow produced by Ryan Rivet.
