A speed networking event at the A. B. Freeman School of Business connects women MBA students with leaders in the business community. Roundtable discussions paired up members of the Louisiana Women's Forum with students from the Tulane and Louisiana State University chapters of the National Association of Women MBAs.

Leading the discussion for the group in the foreground (below) is Sonia A. Perez, president of AT&T Louisiana. The event was held on Friday (Sept. 30) in Goldring/Woldenberg Hall II on the Tulane uptown campus.
