

NPR's Ira Glass headlines radio benefit

March 12, 2012 2:15 AM Photo by Sally Asher
sally@tulane.edu

The host and producer of the public radio show "This American Life," Ira Glass entertains a sold-out audience at McAlister Auditorium on the Tulane uptown campus Saturday (March 10). The show has won a host of awards, with Glass receiving the highest individual honor in public broadcasting, the Edward R. Murrow Award.

Proceeds from Saturday's show benefitted New Orleans' WWNO-FM Productions Fund, supporting creative locally produced radio journalism.

