

Photos: It takes a shtetl

August 02, 2012 11:30 AM Photos by Michael Palumbo
newwave@tulane.edu

The life, times and tunes of the fictional shtetl of Anatevka are brought to the stage of Dixon Hall on the Tulane uptown campus, as Fiddler on the Roof hits the boards in the final installment of Summer Lyric Theatre's 2012 program.

The musical plays tonight (Aug. 3) and Saturday (Aug. 4) at 8 p.m., as well as Sunday (Aug. 5) at 2 p.m.

Randy Cheramie, center, stars as Tevye, the beleaguered peasant dairyman and father. Behind him, (left to right, faces you can see) are Becki Davis, Robert Pavlovich, Ryan Jones (a 2012 Tulane graduate), Griffith Hubbard-Cutro (a current student), Francine Segal and Victor Riffel (a current graduate student).

Celeste Angelle Veillon, left, is Golde, listening as matchmaker Yente, played by Francine Segal, pitches a husband for Golde's eldest daughter.