

Concrete garden

May 29, 2013 1:00 AM Photo by Paula Burch-Celentano
pburch@tulane.edu

Cast concrete busts inhabit a corner of the Newcomb Pottery Garden. The sculptures, which were created as part of a group project in an introductory course, are self-portraits of the students who cast them. Faculty from time to time will use the garden to temporarily display student art. Overseeing this particular project was visiting assistant professor Srdjan Loncar.