

Ducks in a row

February 17, 2014 1:00 AM Photo by Paula Burch-Celentano
pburch@tulane.edu

Young black-bellied whistling ducks stand at attention along the edge of the Audubon Park lagoon near the Tulane University uptown campus. A large flock of the birds, also known as black-bellied tree ducks, can be spotted daily in the park.