

Bottled up

November 18, 2013 1:00 AM Photo by Paula Burch-Celentano
pburch@tulane.edu

Strung above the pathway between Stern Hall and the Israel Building on the Tulane University uptown campus, an installation comprising plastic bottles attracts a crowd on Friday afternoon (Nov. 15). The exhibit "Bottleneck" will be on display throughout the week. It was created to draw attention to the Multicultural Arts and Architecture Collective, a student group that emphasizes inclusiveness and diversity.