

Tulane marching band filmed for "NCIS"

February 12, 2015 12:00 PM New Wave staff
newwave@tulane.edu

From rhythmic tapping of the quads to the spinning flags as parade-goers cheered, it looked like a typical Carnival parade performance for the Tulane University Marching Band.

But this wasn't just any parade ? it was a performance staged for the cameras, part of a segment filmed for an upcoming episode of CBS' "NCIS: New Orleans."

Watch the video to go behind the scenes with the Tulane University Marching Band and tune in for the Mardi Gras episode of "NCIS: New Orleans," which airs on Tuesday (Feb. 17) at 9 pm ET/8 pm CT on CBS.