

Sculpturally speaking

October 02, 2014 2:00 AM Photo by Paula Burch-Celentano
pburch@tulane.edu

A sculpture by art professor Gene Koss, titled Backhoe, sits outside the Newcomb Boulevard entrance to the Woldenberg Art Center on the Tulane University uptown campus. Koss, the founder of the Tulane glass program, will be presenting a Hot Glass Workshop this weekend as part of the International Sculpture Conference in New Orleans.