

Fair games

March 11, 2015 2:00 AM Photos by Kathy Anderson
newwave@tulane.edu

Turner Robb reacts to a mechanical jelly fish sculpture at the 2015 New Orleans Mini Maker Faire held Saturday (March 6) at the Lavin-Bernick Center on the Tulane University uptown campus. Mini Maker Faires are independently organized events that celebrate the spirit of creativity and innovation.

Inventions for all ages were on display at the event.

Brock Johnson, 6, and his mother, Tonya S. Johnson, study an exhibit.

Lucius Craig experiments with bubbles in Pocket Park outside the LBC.

Two girls take turns in the driver seat of a glowing contraption.