

Tulane Medical Students "Going Bald" for St. Baldrick's

February 16, 2011 12:15 PM Keith Brannon
kbrannon@tulane.edu
504-862-8789

 MEDIA ADVISORY *****

Who: More than 100 Tulane University medical students and volunteers will have their heads shaved as children fighting cancer cheer them on. Guests will enjoy a day of music, food and fun while stylists and barbers shave volunteers' heads.

What: Media event and fund-raiser for both the St. Baldrick's Foundation, a national group devoted to helping kids with cancer, and Tulane Hospital for Children.

When: Noon, Friday, Feb. 18

Where: The atrium lobby of Tulane Medical Center, 1415 Tulane Ave.

More: Students from Tulane University School of Medicine set a goal to raise more than $60,000 to support the St. Baldrick's Foundation. So far, the group has surpassed $39,000. For more information or to donate, please visit:

<http://www.stbaldricks.org/events/mypage/eventid/718/eventyear/2011>

In the past three years, Tulane students have raised more than $180,000 for the organization through head-shaving events.

The head-shaving festivities will also feature a bake sale, t-shirts for purchase and a silent auction for yoga lessons, restaurant gift cards, personal training sessions and more. To participate in the auction, visit: <http://tmedweb.tulane.edu/gobald/>