

Model students

July 29, 2016 3:30 PM

A.J. Whitney and Faxu Li, left to right, focus on their designs for Career Explorations in Architecture. The three-week-long course is designed to expose high school students to the unique blend of visual orientation, creative process, academic investigation and professional training that forms an architectural education.