

Greetings y'all

August 22, 2016 1:15 PM Paula Burch-Celentano

pburch@tulane.edu

5042892107

Workers from Tulane's department of facilities services hang signage on the facade of Gibson Hall on Monday (Aug 22) to welcome students to the fall semester. Completed in 1894, Gibson Hall was the first building constructed on the uptown campus. It houses several departments including the Office of Undergraduate Admission, the School of Continuing Studies, and the President's Office.