

For one's own

September 06, 2016 1:30 PM Photos by Cheryl Gerber
newwave@tulane.edu

Students participating in Outreach Tulane spent part of their Labor Day weekend working to help community partners in neighborhoods throughout New Orleans on Saturday (Sept. 3).

First-year student Rebekah Oviatt removes a screen while volunteering with South Seventh Ward Neighbors.

Chase Kelly, center, helps Delaney Connor, second from right, and others paint a living room while volunteering with South Seventh Ward Neighbors.

Tulane students, from left, Louisa Collins, Jeresun Atkin, Chad Costa and Brooke Hanraty clear an alley and fence while volunteering with South Seventh Ward Neighbors.